THIRTY-SIXTH ANNUAL REPORT.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE MERCANTILE LIBRARY CO. OF PHILADELPHIA.

GENTLEMEN: Your Board of Directors, in submitting the Annual Report, are gratified to state, that the usefulness of the Institution has not diminished. The steady increase of its members, which has characterized the preceding years, has marked the past.

The additions in volumes and pamphlet literature is in excess of former years, accompanied by an improvement in their character and value.

To meet the diversified taste of our numerous readers, the selection of books has embraced a wide range, including every department of standard and current literature.

The only works excluded from the Library are those of a controversial nature, in religion or politics, and publications believed to be of an immoral or infidel character.

The Board believe that not only the long-established rules of the Institution, but also a regard for its correct moral tone, and the wishes of a large majority of its stockholders, require them to refuse works of the classes indicated, admission into the Library.

READING-ROOM.

One of the most gratifying evidences of the usefulness of the Institution, is the increased attendance at the Reading-Room.

To render this room attractive, particularly to young men, has always been a prominent aim of the Association.

A list of the magazines and newspapers that are to be found at present upon the tables of the Reading-Room is appended.

FOREIGN BOOK DEPARTMENT.

An arrangement has been entered into with H. Stevens, Esq., of London, for the purchase of many of the best class of standard English works, not republished in this country.

Mr. Stevens is the literary agent of the Library of the Smithsonian Institute at Washington, as well as other prominent Libraries. His experience in the selection and knowledge of books and book publishers, give him many advantages in this respect.

He has been requested to select such standard English works, to the amount of five hundred dollars, as, upon comparison with the catalogue furnished him we are most deficient in, and forward as early as possible; also, of such new works as are not likely to be republished in this country, to make monthly shipments, to the value of one hundred dollars, which will be an outlay for the foreign book purchases, during the ensuing twelve months, of seventeen hundred dollars, $1700. This is a new feature added this year to the Book Department, and, if continued, will certainly tend largely to the improvement and gratification of the readers, and add to the permanent value of the Library.

LIBRARIANS.

Your Board are fully convinced of the benefit derived by the Association, in having the post of Librarian occupied by a gentleman, who, like the present one, Mr. J. Edmands, is fitted by education and experience to assist in the selection of books, and whose judgment enables him to offer suggestions that may advance the interest, and afford pleasure and instruction to its numerous readers.

The Assistant Librarian, Mr. D'Ossone, continues to perform his duties with that faithful attention to the wishes of the members which has marked his previous course.

TREASURY.

The friends of the Institution cannot fail to be gratified by the state of the Treasury, as exhibited in the annexed report of the Treasurer. The credit of the Association stands high. No oppressive debt circumscribes its mission of usefulness; its funds, during the ensuing year, promise to be ample to purchase moderately of all new publications, of a really desirable character, as also many of the standard old works, not now embraced in its catalogue.

There are at present outstanding 295 shares building scrip certificates, the par value of which is $2950, a reduction since last report of $240.

The only outlay, other than ordinary expenses, the past year, has been in painting the front of the building and roof, at a cost of $344, the addition of new furnaces, at a cost of $180, the old ones being defective, not answering the wants of the occupants of the offices.

By the report of the Treasurer, the receipts from all sources amount to \$7665 $\frac{88}{100}$ ; the expenditures during the same time, \$6924 $\frac{31}{100}$ , leaving a balance in the hands of the Treasurer of \$1201 $\frac{25}{100}$ , which is absorbed, to wit:—

Subject to sight drafts, foreign book account	$800
Sundry book bills to January 1, 1859, not yet examined and passed for payment . . .	401 25

MEMBERS.

During the year there has been an accession of 67 shareholders, 40 of whom by the purchase of new and forfeited shares, 3 by the conversion of life certificates, 24 by the conversion of building scrip.

Also of new subscribers 70, making a total of 137 members, less ten, whose shares were forfeited for non-payment of dues, and 7 subscribers whose subscriptions were not renewed; an increase over the preceding year of 120.

LIBRARY.

The number of volumes added during the past year, is 1355, including by purchase, 1201; by donation, 84; by periodicals bound, 70, making the number now in the Library, excluding 250 of duplicate and imperfect ones, 16,000, classified as follows:—

Science, Arts, and Law	2750
Belles Lettres, including Periodicals	3800
Prose Fiction	1900
History	2000
Biography	1500
Miscellaneous	1200
Voyages and Travels	1900

Prose Fiction	165
Voyages and Travels	85
Religion	72
Belles Lettres, including Periodicals	335
History	220
Biography	115
Miscellaneous	93
	1355

The number of volumes taken out for perusal by the members during the year 1857, was 41,000, this year, 1858, 46,300, an increase of 5300, being 13 per cent. over the former year, which must be highly gratifying, as it shows a further appreciation of the benefits of the Association.

The number of members who have availed themselves of their privileges during the year, is 1675, or 88 per cent. of the whole number.

The following exhibits the number of volumes taken out from each of the classes named, in 1857, and the percentage of those taken to the number now in each class.

SUGGESTIONS.

Your Board would, at this point, submit the following: That, while the gratitude of the members to the founders of this Association, and the generous response of the merchants when called upon to contribute towards the erection of the spacious building we now occupy, should ever be held in grateful remembrance: Why is it, that in late years we find upon the perusal of the reports of the Library Companies in our sister cities, that the donations and bequests to their Institutions largely exceed those of our own city, which stands prominent for the wise and munificent bequests and donations to found and sustain numbers of Institutions that benefit morally, mentally, and physically, the recipients of their advantages?

This Institution proposes to perpetuate these views, and set forth in their Annual Report the names of those whose spirit of philanthropy prompted them to aid us in supplying this stream of useful and beneficial knowledge.

As it remains within ourselves whether we are to steadily advance in importance and influence, each member should feel that he has a personal interest in the growth and progress of the Association, and whatever of influence he can exert, should be cheerfully put forth, to forward the noble purpose of its founders, and to keep pace with the demands of the age.

In furtherance thereof, your Board would suggest that a concerted effort be made without delay on the part of the stockholders, by appointing suitable persons to obtain, by donation and subscription, a fund of ten thousand dollars, to be applied to the purchase of such standard works as the Institution is deficient in.

This will promote the value and usefulness of the Association more rapidly than can be done by the regular method.

The stockholders must realize that without an effort of this character, successfully carried out, it is impossible to increase the number of volumes to meet their desires and expectations, as the entire receipts from members, including fines, sales of stock, &c., are exhausted by the ordinary expenses in conducting the Association, and were it not for the rental of the building, there could be but few books added, except by donations, or from a fund obtained yearly by gratuitous subscription, a very uncertain dependence.

CONCLUSION.

In closing the labors of the past year, your Board now resign the direction of its affairs to the stockholders, having endeavored to discharge their duties in a faithful manner, entirely with reference to promoting the interests and usefulness of our cherished Association, with full assurance of the added strength for benefiting its members.
